

MISSION DRIVEN LEADERSHIP: INSPIRING CHURCH UNITY

◀ STEPHEN HINSON
Operations Pastor
Revive Church

Church unity around a shared vision ensures that everyone can contribute to making the vision a reality. Future-oriented voices help keep the church focused on the desired outcome, offering inspiration and driving momentum. However, to bring everyone along, leaders must “build the bridge,” creating a clear path from the present to the future. This is particularly important for present-oriented voices, who need to see how the vision will be achieved step by step. By balancing both perspectives, leaders foster trust and collaboration, ensuring the entire church can move forward together with confidence and purpose in serving the Lord.

ANNUAL MEETING BREAKOUT

MAIN POINT

Mission-driven leadership unites diverse voices by building a bridge from vision to action, fostering trust and collaboration across the church.

1

EFFECTIVE VISION COMMUNICATION:

Every voice contributes to vision casting, but no single voice can connect with everyone naturally. Make sure all voices are represented to more effectively reach your audience.

2

BUILD THE BRIDGE:

Vision alone isn't enough—leaders must create clear, actionable steps that show how to move safely from the present to the future, gaining buy-in from all.

3

INCLUSIVE LEADERSHIP:

By involving future- and present-oriented voices in the visioning process, you ensure that all members of the church feel heard, valued, and committed to the mission God has given you.